If the return value of the API call is 'allow', I want to proceed. I'm setting the correct value on the form field, but the form gets posted anyway, and it seems like the validation fails silently. No error is shown, but the database still gets an insert

I have a calendar that I want to "add items" into for what I'm trying to accomplish is a project that lets my gf set up tasks for me. I just don't want her to have to use Outlook though. I have her set up a Google calendar and she can just make those in there, then add them to my outlook calendar. I found a code that I thought was doing what I wanted it to, but it adds duplicate events in my calendar. It was supposed to add the events from the Google calendar to my Outlook calendar. I've been working on this for hours now and can't seem to get rid of all the duplicates. My code is as follows Sub AddEvents(CalendarName As String) Dim MyOlApp As Object Set MyOlApp = GetObject(, "Outlook.Application") MyOlApp.Display 'MyOlApp.ActiveInspector.CurrentItem.Save Dim MyOlNS As Object Set MyOlNS = MyOlApp.GetNamespace("MAPI") Dim MyOlFolder As Object Set MyOlFolder = MyOlNS.Folders(CalendarName) With MyOlFolder If.Items Is Nothing Then .Items.Add .Items.Add ("C:\Users\myusername\Desktop\TaskSched.ics") .Items.Add ("C b7e8fdf5c8

Although no Help contents are supported, both power and novice users can navigate it without running into issues. Method of use The aforementioned panes enable you to easily browse the contents of your hard drive in order to choose the source and output directory. Processing files is also possible over a network connection as the built-in boxes let you input IP addresses. It is also possible to sync backup files with the original ones without deleting any items, enable a daylight saving time and, finally choose the location at which to save the resulted BAT. Bottom line To conclude, RoboCopy Batch Script Writer is a pretty efficient piece of software with an intuitive interface that is accessible to all. Tasks are performed in a timely manner, the amount of resources required is insignificant and our tests did not reveal any errors, crashes or freezes.Q: Connection string values in two projects that references each other I have two Visual Studio projects, and they both references each other. The two projects are basically the same application, except that they load different data from the database. Also, I have a Startup.cs file in both of the projects, that loads different config values between each other. Here are two examples: public class MyClass { public string Value { get; set; } public MyClass() { MyClass.SetConfig(ConfigurationManager.AppSettings["FirstConfig"]); }
