The Myth Seekers: The Legacy Of Vulcan Features Key:

- Intuitive camera-controls - Winning games is as easy as playing them. Make your screen your camera, scroll to the right or left and jump inside the maze to get to the next lifesaver. The only way to lose in a life-saving game is to be hit by a ball or to run out of the playing area or the maze.
- Interesting goals - Goals are what make a game fun. They are creative and they make a game exciting, while still being fair to the users. Simply select a goal such as 'Hit the closest orange ball or be "limited" to 10 life-saves.' The user picks a lifesaver from his or her players and attempts to reach the goal.
- Favorite lifesavers - You're a lifesaving champion, so it only makes sense that you can save your own lifesavers. Save a lifesaver from any part of the mazes and become world champion. If you would rather not create and edit your own lifesavers, try one of the many millions on the shelf, or use an already made lifesaver such as the Matrix, or possibly the Lightning, or the Basics.
- Short loop games - A game is always more fun when it keeps you playing for a while. Some short-looped games are less logical, but have more fun in the end, even though they will only last a few minutes. For example, rather than using a main maze, you could construct a game where the "main" maze is only a small loop within a larger, outer maze.
- Unique challenges - Nothing makes a maze game more fun than watching your players jump into the maze, do the most unbelievable, heart-stopping maneuvers, and outsmart each other.
- Game Center - Win, lose or tie, your scores and rankings will be saved using Game Center. You'll be

Excited? Im pleased you liked our game. Are you really pleased? Im really pleased. Because then I will feel proud. I am a human, and I feel joy when I see you smile. The game will not stay here, after all, I am just a developer. In the end, I need to check my emails, play with my daughter, I feel like eating pizza, so that I can be hungry. Can you believe that Ive been enjoying this game for the past three years? One day, my daughter made a drawing, saying: If daddy comes home with a yellow toy, shes going to leave. Im playing the game without a weapon, where are the monsters? Where is my house? Come on, where is my house? Who made this game? Why does it have blood? I am not the only player. There are many other players. Who did this? No idea. It is too difficult for me to play this game. I didnt even know that I am not the only player. I came across the game many years ago, but I have never played the game for that long. As far as I can remember, I have been playing this game for only a couple of months. I feel like I have been playing this game for months. You know, the situation really feels terrible. I made a mistake. I really didnt see it coming. What is going to happen to me now? I feel so bad about myself! So I really hope you dont eat me! Ah, you have to pick me up. Come on, let me play this game. Not enough room here, okay. Not enough room for this guy. Oh, my God. You have no idea how pleased I am right now. The gravity is off. Ah, the landing pad. How many zombies is there? Hey, youre killing the player. I am too old to play this game. It has been fun playing this game for so long. I am glad I am not the only player, Im really pleased. Im really pleased. There must be a lot of gamers! But how come there are so many other people in this game? Do you mean me? You said there are a lot of players in this game. Is there any other place in this game? But I feel so relieved right now. I have not been tired for so long. Playing this game is fun! I have a lot of fun! Really, this is my very first video game. Im really thrilled to be here. However

What's new in The Myth Seekers: The Legacy Of Vulcan:

Unlike aggressive fighters, which are often used to begin a campaign in a single direct confrontation, the inimical battalions that defy Zanzibar fall into two basic types. The most common are inbound, which attack by force; some are inbound, but run away before the first series of strikes blows home (most notably the Neo-Congolese Artemis Warriors) and some are inbound and don't run away, but defend (typically the tussle). This variety allows the individual games to keep their own unique style and character, in terms of the environment in which they play out. The Zulu nation here in the system has settled almost entirely in Erez, and so has the most direct power over the nearest hot spot, Upella. The Radical Judaism sector is vast and throughout its depths, both in the swamps and the deserts, lie hidden pockets of resistance and militant movements. On the southern rim of the woods - that vast expanse of forest that stretches between the northern edge of Erez and the volcanic peaks of the southern highland - lurks the Cembren Affiliated, an aggressive T'ankatekan presence who ruled over the most fertile land until the Epaulette-T'ankatekan War. The Epaulette T'ankatekan War was a war of attrition and pacification. The T'ankatekan forces ranged widely across the Cembren's homelands; systematically sinking their territorial claims into their sedimentary roots, sinking and destroying, taking land if they wished and abandoning it to a new settlement of Cembren knelt peasants where the fertile loess is sandier. Sub-tly and effortlessly, the T'ankatekan forces eliminated any competing nation from the Cembren's territory. They gave the Cembrens opportunities and subsistence. By moving into the saturated loess, they also pushed the resourceful but poor Cembrens further and further from the fresh water of the tributaries that fed the Great Flood, where they were forced to abandon their centuries old city-dwelling and farm-steading as their accumulated Bronze Age wealth atrophied and their communities collapsed. Slowly but gradually the conflict ebbed away until the Epaulette-T'ankatekan War was settled. The T'ankatekan forces, however, continued to patrol the shoreline and trade routes, and the Cembren were forced to abandon their coastal possessions, with their cities and infrastructure either set

You are an adventurer who lives in a world where things are not as they seem. You wake up one morning and find that you have been turned into a little mammal. You run and jump to find a way back home.
Have you ever imagined you have always existed in the shadows of your family? What if I told you you could escape your comfort zone and live again? What if I told you you could start a new life where the only people you know is yourself? This is the story of a boy who decides to leave the confinement of his family and a town he doesn't even remember. He's ready to join a group of kids who escape their parents and have fun in the forest. But it's not quite that easy. A woman's life is taken over by the Vampire's. Everything she loves and cherishes is at stake. How will she pull through when the undead has entered her life?
Honey to Taste: A Spirit Tribute and a Horror Novella We loved our story, but a bigger story was hiding in our novella. A story of someone who fights the evil with the help of love. This novella is called Honey to Taste. In this story, our main character, Emmie is in a city called Des Moines, Iowa, where humans and vampires coexist. She is in a new town where she studies to become a nurse. Her life becomes threatened when the pastor of the church, Geoffrey invites Emmie to drink of a strange liquid he brought from the church. This liquid makes her weak and thirsty for blood. At first she feels at ease with the drink, but after drinking all the liquid in the bottle, she begins to lose her human side. Emmie remembers her childhood, how a night hunt changed her forever. Something terrible happened that night that made her a hybrid of human and vampire. When Emmie becomes weak she seeks to become human again. As Emmie lives out her new life in a new town, she finds her new vampire heart that beats more than blood, more than passion. Our goal is to create stories with a purpose to inspire and empower our audience. To make a difference in their lives through books and entertainment. We are a podcast promoting a variety of genres including horror, fantasy, urban fantasy, action/adventure, science fiction, and all other things that are just too
